

Aisha joined Bousfields as a Planner in August 2020. She holds a Masters of Science in Planning, with a specialization in Urban Planning & Development from the University of Toronto. Previously, she earned a Bachelor of Arts Honours in Geography & Urban Studies at York University.

Prior to joining Bousfields, Aisha worked at the Regional Municipality of York as an Associate Planner where she assisted with various tasks to advance the Municipal Comprehensive Review. Prior to that, she interned at the City of Brampton as a Policy Planner where she reviewed development applications and contributed to the development of the Affordable Housing Strategy.

Outside of the office, Aisha is passionate about affordable housing, sustainable city building practices and creative place-making, and is a co-founder of the Mentorship Initiative for Indigenous & Planners of Colour (MIPOC).
